 MEDVET

Why just practice when you can lead?

Veterinarian owned and led is an approach influencing the art of patient care. It means working with leaders who've been in your shoes and surrounding yourself with the best and brightest colleagues. It also means sharing experiences, so we learn and grow, solve problems, and advance patient care.

The approach allows us to maintain this focus without sacrificing strong financial management or impeding operational excellence. We know care must always come first – care for our patients, clients, referral partners, and especially our team.

Veterinarian owned and led is also a mindset influencing every aspect of who we are. It's why we focus on collaboration. It's why we make our team's wellbeing a priority. It's what makes us MedVet, and you'll feel the difference the moment you walk through our doors.

I love working at MedVet because of the people and quality/comprehensive care that we are able to provide for our patients. The collaboration and innovation that all the specialists provide are very unique and unmatched. The colleagues that I share my workday with really create a sense of family. We see some tough, sad, and hard cases. Knowing that we can get through these patients and the day as a work family really helps make it better. Our core values of teamwork, leadership, and compassion empower us to lead specialty healthcare knowing that we are a team and not an individual struggling through.

About Us

The MedVet Story

MedVet was founded in 1988 by Dr. William D. DeHoff, initially to make use of the space available when Columbus Veterinary Emergency Services (CVES) was closed during the day. The practice quickly grew as Drs. John Gordon (Dermatology) and Jon Shiroma (Radiology) were attracted by Dr. DeHoff's compelling vision.

In 1999, Dr. Eric R. Schertel (Surgery) left his university position, leading to the official merger of CVES and MedVet, marking a significant milestone in their history.

Nearly 40 years later, MedVet has grown into the largest network of veterinarian owned and led emergency and specialty hospitals for pets across the nation. With locations from Detroit to Dallas and Connecticut to California, we improve the lives of pets, their families, and the veterinary community.
